

THE PELLIGON

The Pelligon

The Pelligon, a César Pelli masterpiece, rises as a luminary venue in Canary Wharf, where a soaring glass dome and cascading natural light create a backdrop for up to 1,000 guests. This space—characterised by its elegantly floating mezzanine and a tranquil, waterside terrace, is exquisitely suited to a spectrum of events, from vibrant conferences to lavish celebrations.

About The Pelligon

A versatile venue on the Canary Wharf riverfront made of glass and light, The Pelligon is a site to be seen. Designed by renowned architect César Pelli as the sister to New York's Winter Garden, this space blends art deco elements with futuristic flair for a see-through look that stands out.

Soaring ceilings and floor-to-sky glass frontage arc into an eye-catching 27-metre glass dome that invites lots of natural light into a flexible space to shape as you please. Stage intimate gigs with a capacity of 400 or host larger-than-life celebrations up to 1,000 using every square centimetre of our 700 square metres. And at the hottest events of the year, invite your guests to spill up onto the mezzanine or out onto the waterside terrace to catch a breath and reflect on the current.

Our timeless building features customisable colour lighting and adaptable glass panels, which can be tailored with branded vinyl to modify visibility, enabling you to transform the space to match any ambiance.

Mirroring the arch of the adjacent Canary Wharf station, The Pelligon is easily accessible via the London Underground, the Dockland Light Railway, and the Elizabeth Line. Made for conferences, awards ceremonies, product launches, parties, and weddings, this is a place at the centre and in plain sight.

Made of glass and light, The Pelligon is your place to see and be seen.
